Acknowledgement of Country

Capital Region Community Services acknowledges the Traditional Owners of the Lands across the Capital Region where we support community. We recognise that sovereignty was never ceded, and the land always was, and always will be, Aboriginal Lands. We pay our respects to the Traditional Owners and Elders across the region, past and present, and thank them for caring for the land, waters and skies, and for their culture, teaching and knowledge passed down through generations.

A statement from our CEO, Mandy Green

As Chief Executive Officer of Capital Region Community Services (CRCS), I am proud to present our inaugural Reflect Reconciliation Action Plan (RAP). This marks a significant milestone in our organisation's journey toward reconciliation, and I acknowledge the deep responsibility we carry in contributing meaningfully to this national movement.

Our Reflect RAP is more than a document - it is a commitment to listen, learn, and act. It lays the foundation for building respectful relationships with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, and for embedding cultural awareness and inclusion into the heart of our organisation.

Through this plan, we aim to deepen our understanding of our sphere of influence and the unique role CRCS can play in advancing reconciliation across the five dimensions: race relations, equality and equity, institutional integrity, unity, and historical acceptance.

I extend my gratitude to our RAP Working Group, and to all employees who have contributed to this process. Your dedication ensures that our reconciliation efforts are not only strategic but also heartfelt and enduring.

As we move forward, we will continue to reflect on our practices, engage with community voices, and create opportunities that honour the cultures, histories, and leadership of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples. I look forward to the journey ahead and to the impact we will make together.

Mandy Green Chief Executive Officer

Statement from CEO of Reconciliation Australia

Inaugural Reflect RAP

Reconciliation Australia welcomes Capital Region Community Services to the Reconciliation Action Plan (RAP) program with the formal endorsement of its inaugural Reflect RAP.

Capital Region Community Services joins a network of more than 3,000 corporate, government, and not-for-profit organisations that have made a formal commitment to reconciliation through the RAP program.

Since 2006, RAPs have provided a framework for organisations to leverage their structures and diverse spheres of influence to support the national reconciliation movement. The program's potential for impact is greater than ever, with over 5.5 million people now working or studying in an organisation with a RAP.

The four RAP types — Reflect, Innovate, Stretch and Elevate — allow RAP partners to continuously develop and strengthen reconciliation commitments in new ways. This Reflect RAP will lay the foundations, priming the workplace for future RAPs and reconciliation initiatives.

The RAP program's strength is its framework of relationships, respect, and opportunities, allowing an organisation to strategically set its reconciliation commitments in line with its own business objectives, for the most effective outcomes.

These outcomes contribute towards the five dimensions of reconciliation: race relations; equality and equity; institutional integrity; unity; and historical acceptance.

It is critical to not only uphold all five dimensions of reconciliation, but also increase awareness of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultures, histories, knowledge, and leadership across all sectors of Australian society.

This Reflect RAP enables Capital Region Community Services to deepen its understanding of its sphere of influence and the unique contribution it can make to lead progress across the five dimensions. Getting these first steps right will ensure the sustainability of future RAPs and reconciliation initiatives, and provide meaningful impact toward Australia's reconciliation journey.

Congratulations Capital Region Community Services, welcome to the RAP program, and I look forward to following your reconciliation journey in the years to come.

Our Business

We are a non-profit community-based organisation that provides a wide range of programs and services to communities across the ACT and the broader Capital Region.

We provide diverse programs and services catering to individuals, families, children, young people and seniors. Our services include early education and care, outside-school-hours care, youth engagement, family support, education and early intervention services, community transport, aged care in-home and social supports, therapeutic services, and community development and recreation programs.

Working collaboratively with community members, local organisations and businesses, we develop responsive programs and activities that support self-determination and reduce social isolation.

We pride ourselves on our commitment to quality, safety and positive outcomes for the people and families we serve. We are dedicated to creating an inclusive and connected community where everyone can access the resources and support needed to thrive. Our leadership, including the Board of Directors and the Executive Management Team, play a crucial role in guiding CRCS's strategic initiatives, ensuring organisational performance, and driving positive change in our community.

We employ around 200 people across our broad range of programs in our Community Centre, Youth Centre, Early Childhood Centres and other community locations. Employees are able to let us know through our HR Systems that they identify as Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander people, however we do not currently have a system to report on these numbers. As part of the RAP, we have undertaken to build our systems to improve this capacity, and build our understanding of the people that we employ.

Our RAP

CRCS is committed to progressing our Reconciliation journey with care, respect and responsibility. We are grateful for the guidance of Reconciliation Australia and the structure provided to help us develop our RAP, which supports us to deepen our learning, strengthen relationships and embed meaningful, sustainable change across our organisation.

As a large and diverse organisation, we recognised that while many team members had contributed to reconciliation efforts over the years, and earlier versions of a RAP had been explored, we needed a coordinated, organisation-wide approach. Our aim was to ensure our work aligned with our values, reflected best practice, and focused on the areas of development that would make the most meaningful impact. Although a draft RAP had been worked on since 2022, organisational changes made consistent progress challenging.

In 2024, we committed collectively to the development of our first RAP within 12 months. We formed a dedicated Working Group representing a range of teams and perspectives, and began a renewed, deliberate journey together. One of our first actions planned is to work with our local community to invite First Nations representation onto our RAP Working Group, to ensure that we have included Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander perspectives in our discussions, planning and actions.

Over the next 18 months, we will continue to build implementation plans for each operational area of CRCS, alongside whole-of-organisation commitments such as those led through People & Culture. This will support us to embed reconciliation across all aspects of our work, not just in isolated projects.

Throughout the RAP's development, our RAP Working Group Chair, Kate Luck (Executive Manager – Business and Infrastructure), and RAP Champion, Catalina Nieto (Senior Digital Designer), have provided leadership and guidance. We intend for the RAP Working Group Chair role to remain at the Executive level to ensure visible leadership, accountability, and sustained top-down support for reconciliation.

About the artist

Sarah Richards

A Ngiyampaa woman born on Gadigal land, Sarah is a contemporary artist who has been living and painting on Ngunnawal and Ngambri Country since 2012.

Sarah was awarded ACT NAIDOC Artist of the Year in 2015, and Canberra Women in Business' Indigenous Business Woman of the Year in 2023. In 2018, she drew on the knowledge from her commerce degree and CPA qualification to turn her passion from a hobby into a small business, creating Marrawuy Journeys.

Marrawuy (Mar-ra-way), in the language of her ancestors, the Wongaibon people, means "red kangaroo" and was the totem of one of her ancestors, Richard King. This is one of the reasons she chose the name Marrawuy Journeys. The other is the symbolism of the kangaroo, which cannot easily move backwards. This resonates strongly with Sarah, as she continues to move forward no matter the challenges she faces.

Wellbeing, creativity, and culture are at the heart of everything at Marrawuy Journeys. When people are well, productivity rises and creativity flourishes. In team environments, strong culture drives success. Supporting wellbeing through productivity strategies and creative expression helps unlock potential and energise teams in meaningful ways.

Marrawuy Journeys is:

- a 100% Aboriginal-owned and led business;
- Supply Nation certified;
- an NSW Indigenous Chamber of Commerce (NSWICC) Assured member; and
- a member of the Indigenous Art Code.

About Inclusive Connections

In 2022, CRCS partnered with Marrawuy Journeys (www.mjourneys.com.au) to begin our most recent reconciliation journey, resulting in the creation of Inclusive Connections, a painting that reflects connection, inclusion, and the relationships at the heart of our community. The artwork is displayed in our head office in Bruce, ACT, as a visual reminder of our ongoing commitment to reconciliation. Sarah describes the images meaning below, “Capital Region Community Services (CRCS) has a vision of an inclusive, connected community and Inclusive Connections represents their commitment to their vision.

Starting at the left of the artwork, is a circular element that represents CRCS surrounded by their employees, followed by two interlocking lines that represent their commitment to individuals, families, children, and young people (different coloured people around the outside) that they provide a wide range of programs and services to (different coloured individual dots). It also represents their commitment to the reconciliation journey and working towards their vision for reconciliation.

CRCS currently provides their services in seven locations in the capital region and the paths that journey out from the circular element represent this diverse reach. The opportunities and the positive impact that CRCS provides for the communities they service is subtly captured by the ripple rings that can be seen in the background of the piece.

The key themes of Inclusive Connections are connection, journey and diversity and it is hoped that all who view the piece can feel that inclusion and connection to the CRCS journey.”

Our Reconciliation Activities

Since then, we have made some important progress in our reconciliation journey.

- Developed a resource to assist teams to ensure Acknowledgement of Country is understood and integrated into all internal and external meetings and events. This also occurs every morning in our education and care services with a child appropriate language.
- Invited local Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander community members in our EAC services to share stories and knowledge through dramatic play and artwork. Hosted an ASBA Aboriginal student Certificate III to support their training and education in Early Childhood.
- Cofacilitated Community Groups for Aboriginal girls and women with the West Belconnen Child and Family Centre
- Worked with Yerrabi Yurwang Child and Family Aboriginal Corporation to attend training and support the Deadly Brains playgroup
- Our Youth Service has collaborated with Gugan Gulwan Youth Aboriginal Corporation to support young people to obtain driving licences, stay connected to school and access other Belconnen Youth Services.

We look forward to strengthening our relationships with our colleagues in Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander organisations in our area, and with the Community to whom we provide services.
